PLEURO-PNEUMONIA.

A Temporary Quarantine to Be Proclaimed—Ending the Infected Animals.

Postponement of the September Commission Sale of Jersey Cattle in Chicago.

Alarming Ravages of Hog Cholera in New Jersey—Milk Sickness and Glanders in Illinois.

A TEMPORARY QUARANTINE.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 21.—[Special.]—The cattle disease have been greatly stirred about the outbreak of pleuro-pneumonia. Dr. Hayes, the State Veterinarian, and Dr. D. E. Salmon, of the Federal Bureau of animal industry arrived here this morning and had a conference with the Governor in regard to the matter. It was decided that the information now in hand is not sufficient to warrant a general quarantine, and that a temporary quarantine will be proclaimed immediately based on such information as is at hand. The Governor left for the northern part of the State this afternoon, and it is not probable satisfactory data can be got together for a permanent quarantine before the first of next week. Drs. Hayes and Salmon go to Fairfax, this County, to the morning to collect information and, if possible, trace the exact history and destination of every animal in the infected district and have it killed at once. They do not know how many cattle have been exposed by the distribution from that unit, and they are exceedingly anxious about things from here on out.

THOSE CATTLE.

These cattle, however, are guaranteed. Those of the animals sold at A. H. Dorr's auction Feb. 12 went to H. D. Carter at Queen, O. The animals died out of Carter's herd, four of which gradually lost power and appetite. Mr. Carter sold one animal to Mr. Hunt and sent to the Hospital at Baltimore, and the story of the disease here is pretty known. During this time Mr. Carter sold a cow to Mr. Carter of Sterling and one each to Mr. Hunt, having the same farmer, to Judge Bond, to Frank Bennett, to Capt. Bennett and of the cows Carter bought last fall, one to Mr. Ryan and one to Mr. Hunt. Mrs. Bennett says positively that none of the cows sold by Mr. Carter to Mr. Hunt, Judge Bond and herself, has been sick. It appears that the last of D. H. & C. Troop had been affected and four had died. These animals were kept in a stable in town, but the disease also appeared on the farm of John J. Boyle, outside of the city. Two calves had died and another has been sick. Dr. Salmon has ruled the Hunt and Owens, and the animals have killed. Dr. Salmon says that the disease is fully understood. They all agree that it is a case of pleuro-pneumonia, but have not yet allowed a detail of the post-mortem to be published. One of the Hunt herd, bought by Dale Carey of this city, died, an examination ensued, and another is now in the same good health. The veterinarians at work on the case are not unable to tell where the animals of the Hunt herd came from. Several of them are known to have come from Maryland, but it is not known whether any of them are from infected herds. Dr. Boyle, who has charge of the Hunt herd, says that all of the animals are in Miami, Mo., the one at Jacksonville the last to die July 7. The most dangerous herd left of members of the Hunt herd and of animals infected from them, except to government, but Dr. Salmon denies the accounting for the disease of the animals. Dr. Salmon says that the disease is not to the Hunt-Bennett-Carey stock alone to-day.

THE QUARANTINE AREA.

During the evening the Post Investigating Board on the following temporary order of quarantine to be distributed immediately to all persons who have other diseases or exposed cattle:

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 21.—Dr. [illegible] from Fairfax County, Va., to the effect that pleuro-pneumonia exists among cattle in that county, and that the disease has been communicated to cattle in the District of Columbia, and that the disease has been communicated to cattle in the District of Columbia, and that the disease has been communicated to cattle in the District of Columbia

FRANCE AND CHINA.

LONDON, Aug. 28.—[Special Cable Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.]—The greatest excitement prevails in Paris in regard to the French expedition, which is now regarded as inevitable. The businessmen are excited, and the Paris press is alarmed and that all negotiations are at an end and hostilities are to begin. A high Chinese official informed your correspondent that the Chinese Government had made all in its power to avoid the conflict, but the precipitation of the French Ministry as to numbers and their unreasonable demand for an indemnity for a treaty concluded by the Count of the Chinese and not by China, cannot be accepted by the Chinese Government, he declares, will never get a single sou, but will submit to the last man. China was willing to permit all nations to share in the advantages of the southern Province, having control of the junction of the rivers, but M. Ferry knew he would defend with the last drop of blood and therefore refused. All these rights and therefore refused. All these rights and therefore refused. All these rights

Grasshoppers, Wet, Aug. 21.—[Special.]—The grasshoppers arrived here on the Pioneer Express train from the East at 8 o'clock this morning, and by 9 o'clock had begun operations on the corn and potatoes in the vicinity of this city. They are not very large, but are very numerous, and will do considerable damage if they remain long. The rain which fell here last night will also do much damage to the corn crop, as it has blown down a large portion of the corn in the bottoms, and will cause it to mildew. The rain has been general throughout the State, and will be of great benefit to the pastures and late crops. Reports from the interior indicate that the corn crop will be very large, and that the yield of potatoes will be unusually heavy.

Grand Rapids Gossip.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Aug. 21.—[Special.]—Rev. Lewis Pease, pastor of the Christian Church of this city, has proposed to step down and out from the pulpit and devote himself to the work of the ministry, simply as pastor of the church, and not as an evangelist, having been preferred to members of his own congregation. The proposition has been agreed to. The results of an investigation into the financial affairs of which the trustees of the Reformed Church have been charged, by the Classis of Holland, have been published. The result of the investigation is to fully exonerate Mr. Peter Van der Meulen, the church treasurer who has been investigated. The matter was brought to a head at going session on the charges, and parties summoned to appear.

IN GENERAL.

Superintendent Kimball says that all the contracts will be in the new city hall by Dec. 1.

All the water inspectors are busy calling on the users of dampskins, who receive warnings, or else in the end may be mulct fines and costs.

Chief Commissioner De Wolf left for Chicago, Ill., yesterday to see a block and pinion lever bridge, also has the Rosencrans road in mind.

J. Hahn of No. 49 Center street was robbed last week Friday of $1, the fact coming to light last week in Justice Summers's court, where the thief was fined $10 and costs.

There were forty-eight arrests and visits the last twenty-four hours, according to the list of the former and six of the latter in the "general order." The quiescence seems to be.

William Church of No. 120 North avenue charged by Minnie Hicks, a thirteen-year-old, a criminal assault two weeks ago last Sunday, was discharged in Justice Summers's court yesterday, the complainant not appearing. The girl's mother said she would not appear against him.

The special committee of the managers of the Presbyterian Home, appointed to confer in connection with the trustees of the Home in regard to securing assistance to the building fund, met yesterday afternoon in the Home, but nothing definite was decided upon.

Thomas Thomson, night watchman for C. Reynolds, stone in person at No. 42 Lake street, was before Justice C. J. Weis charged with having stolen $40 worth of brushes and paper goods. An examination of the money gave a partial explanation, for that half is the amount found on the prisoner. Mr. Reynolds was in person, but the case will be ready for trial to-day at 2 p. m.

Chief Collector Conlon is settling and quieting in the numerous men before him who are delinquent because of taxes. There are about 100 of them in the city, and they seem glad to be put on a search so that quieting may be had. Many of them are waiting for the privilege, though the last complaint book is half filled with names that do not deserve it.

George Wentzel, a painter, picked up a policeman left by Commissioner Kennedy, a resident of No. 204 West Fourth street, on the charge of not voting, and $10 against the right. Wentzel said he had voted, and had been told by Kennedy's messenger that he was all right. Kennedy says the other prisoners, and that Wentzel was not present. Each of the parties was fined by Kennedy's presiding, and the case went to Summers's court, where the complaint was dismissed.

Peter Johnston, a landowner in the Town of Lake, has been in the habit of enacting small farce to appear to get free to gain and more gentle than most of the men in front. One of the men got drunk and left him, a widow in the second story of a small building on Fifty-first street and Wentworth avenue. The widow's daughter, Mrs. Mary Johnston, another, and another man, were getting ready to move, when Johnston appeared and demanded that they leave the premises. They refused, and Johnston drew a revolver and fired at the men, but missed them. He was arrested and fined $10 and costs in Justice C. J. Weis's court.

Thomas Grogan, delivering cloth at the W. Peet Company's mills, corner of Carroll avenue and Union street, was arrested by detectives on the complaint and orders issued by the Chicago Tailors' Union, of which Grogan is a member, charging him with working for a firm not on the list of the union. Grogan was released on bail, and will appear to-day before Justice Summers. The union claims that the Peet Company is one of those which refused to accept the terms of the union, and which, after the discharge of its employés who refused to work for less than the union scale, filled their places with non-union men.

Peter Spielman, a special policeman, living at No. 82 East Erie street, was charged before Justice Lyon with stabbing and beating John Otto, the Pierce, John Hunt, and Thomas Quinn into the last time Saturday night. Spielman's testimony, which was given last Friday, was to the effect that he was in the saloon of Otto, on Erie street, having lunched at the Pierce House, when Otto, Hunt, and Quinn came in and began to abuse him. He ordered them out, and they refused, but on the interference of Otto left. Spielman then went to the Pierce House, and Otto and Hunt followed him there and beat him with clubs. Spielman was discharged.

James Gallahan, who left up Andrew Quinn for the board at the corner of Lake and Union streets, was held to the Criminal Court in $1,000 bail by Justice C. J. Weis. Jerry Cunningham, who alleges that Gallahan struck Quinn on the head with a billiard cue, causing a wound which will probably result in his death, was also held to the Criminal Court in $1,000 bail. Gallahan was arrested by Officer Bolger, and Cunningham by Officer Hogan. Both the injured parties are at the County Hospital.

Thomas Kelly, who was arrested on Tuesday night by Officer Hogan, charged with stealing a coat from Mrs. Mary Ann Hogan, a resident of No. 1 Lake street, was discharged in Justice Summers's court yesterday, the complainant not appearing. Mrs. Hogan says that Kelly was in the habit of coming to her house, and that he had taken the coat from the hall. Kelly says that he found the coat in the street, and that he was going to the house to see if it belonged to Mrs. Hogan.

Mrs. Mary Ann Hogan, a resident of No. 1 Lake street, was before Justice C. J. Weis charged with having stolen $40 worth of brushes and paper goods. An examination of the money gave a partial explanation, for that half is the amount found on the prisoner. Mr. Reynolds was in person, but the case will be ready for trial to-day at 2 p. m.

George Wentzel, a painter, picked up a policeman left by Commissioner Kennedy, a resident of No. 204 West Fourth street, on the charge of not voting, and $10 against the right. Wentzel said he had voted, and had been told by Kennedy's messenger that he was all right. Kennedy says the other prisoners, and that Wentzel was not present. Each of the parties was fined by Kennedy's presiding, and the case went to Summers's court, where the complaint was dismissed.

Peter Johnston, a landowner in the Town of Lake, has been in the habit of enacting small farce to appear to get free to gain and more gentle than most of the men in front. One of the men got drunk and left him, a widow in the second story of a small building on Fifty-first street and Wentworth avenue. The widow's daughter, Mrs. Mary Johnston, another, and another man, were getting ready to move, when Johnston appeared and demanded that they leave the premises. They refused, and Johnston drew a revolver and fired at the men, but missed them. He was arrested and fined $10 and costs in Justice C. J. Weis's court.

Thomas Grogan, delivering cloth at the W. Peet Company's mills, corner of Carroll avenue and Union street, was arrested by detectives on the complaint and orders issued by the Chicago Tailors' Union, of which Grogan is a member, charging him with working for a firm not on the list of the union. Grogan was released on bail, and will appear to-day before Justice Summers. The union claims that the Peet Company is one of those which refused to accept the terms of the union, and which, after the discharge of its employés who refused to work for less than the union scale, filled their places with non-union men.

Peter Spielman, a special policeman, living at No. 82 East Erie street, was charged before Justice Lyon with stabbing and beating John Otto, the Pierce, John Hunt, and Thomas Quinn into the last time Saturday night. Spielman's testimony, which was given last Friday, was to the effect that he was in the saloon of Otto, on Erie street, having lunched at the Pierce House, when Otto, Hunt, and Quinn came in and began to abuse him. He ordered them out, and they refused, but on the interference of Otto left. Spielman then went to the Pierce House, and Otto and Hunt followed him there and beat him with clubs. Spielman was discharged.

James Gallahan, who left up Andrew Quinn for the board at the corner of Lake and Union streets, was held to the Criminal Court in $1,000 bail by Justice C. J. Weis. Jerry Cunningham, who alleges that Gallahan struck Quinn on the head with a billiard cue, causing a wound which will probably result in his death, was also held to the Criminal Court in $1,000 bail. Gallahan was arrested by Officer Bolger, and Cunningham by Officer Hogan. Both the injured parties are at the County Hospital.

How the Scheme Robs the Different Individual Precincts of Men to Judge—Curious Deal.

The most interesting session of the County Board Committee on Assessments on Board was held yesterday afternoon. The members took occasion to express their candid opinions of one another and the "tax-fixers" between generally without reserve, and before they adjourned they succeeded in demonstrating the carelessness and incompetence of the officials. The immediate object of the meeting was to hear the request of the City Assessors for further work, but considerable time was consumed in discussing the charges of "fixing" and "crookedness" preferred by "Citizen," an associate of which was published in yesterday's Tribune. The real object of the meeting, however, was to put Board Trades, the North Town assessor, on the stand in order to satisfy the party prejudice of Mike Tuchtenhagen and Tom Hoyt. There were disappointed, believing that Mr. Trades did not appear, and the next session was declared to be the last Chair of the South Town.

THE COMMITTEE.

In order to the persons who by the adjustment the county work and abuse of the South Side Elevated Railway Company, Mr. Chase said that he did not do so because the business of South Town had not increased from the proper limits. That question satisfied the Tax Unit to some extent, and he disregarded Mr. Chase's statement. Further questioning Mr. Chase said that Mr. Trades was one of many paid for work done outside the regular assessment. The Tax Unit had the following to say in relation to the assessment of the South Town:

Mr. Chase—Mr. Trades is a member of the Board of Review, and I don't think he has anything to do with the assessment of property. He is a member of the Board of Review, and I don't think he has anything to do with the assessment of property. He is a member of the Board of Review, and I don't think he has anything to do with the assessment of property.

Stock exchange was quoted as follows yesterday:

Quotations did not furnish any evidence that the recent slight increase in the volume of trade was the beginning of a fall revival, it was an event in no way like this season. The demand for money was small, and there was nothing in the financial movements of the day to indicate a brisk increase in the near future. It is not, however, safe to generalize on the business of one day, or even one week. Much can be said on both sides of the question. The demand for money is usually small, and there is a good demand for that funds in the early fall. Indeed, some of them say that the wants are such as large and frequent as they are now. The movements of currency in the country have been unusually small. The movement, which is now being made by the drawers, foreign bills were not well understood.

There was only a moderate call to banks upon securities. Brokers are commencing to the opening of activity next week. The demand for discounts is not large, neither are the offerings. The rates at the Chicago Stock Exchange were: Illinois Central (Chicago Division) 6 at 72, 50,000 Chicago, Pacific & Western 6s at 70½, 50,000 Northwestern sinking fund 6s at 74½, 50,000 do. 50,000 Central Illinois 6s at 80½, 50,000 do. 50,000 Central Illinois 6s at 80½, 50,000 Rock Island & Peoria 6s at 80½, 50,000 Rock Island & Peoria 6s at 80½, in shares of southern stock at 77½, and at 78.

The following were the closing quotations at the Stock Exchange board there a week ago (1) indicate that the past two weeks' advance a fact:

The sales of stocks on the New York Exchange were only 60,000 shares. There was some selling early in the day by the effect of the unsatisfactoriness and gradual to the closing, but support was soon given to the market, and prices from on the stock and were much. Union Pacific was all the leaders, and closed the highest point yet reached. It is rumored that operators in Europe who sold Wednesday bought back yesterday. Wilbur & Co. of New York are reported to have sold $1,000,000 of stock Wednesday, among Union Pacific, Western Union, and St. Paul. Boston is said to have been a seller of Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific. There is considerable to their stock in this region which will go on at prices a little above the present range. Trade shows a recent fall to have been active the market. The Tuesday's balance are reported of Canada. It is rumored that the Directors of the Grand Trunk Railway Company intend to take up the floating debt of the Sterling Bank, and that a subscription to the stock (the new stock) has been established. There is still much talk in favor of Pacific Mail. It is said to be coming to dividends and to have surplus enough to insure a yearly dividends of the present rate. Previous Stockton to improvement as a large portion of the stock and an advancing 5 cheap at current prices. Together with a call to have been the purchases of sixty shares of this security taken to the country at the Producers. The operators are watching the weather and crop reports very closely to verify their views. Most of the New York operators yesterday. They say to fall.

New York, Aug. 11.—Special.—The Gold and Money market here. The meeting to-day of Union Pacific stock continues to be the absorbing subject of interest to the market. It is said a loss today to the early trade, but the stock closed very good and firm. Quotations under 4. Even then, considerable of the stock that's worth now to this stock, and it should belong to it. The highest of the stock that's worth now to this stock, and it should belong to it. The highest prices yet touched in the afternoon. The short interest are holding their hands as they expect that the Grand Trunk Railway Company will have already acquired such an interest in this stock as to control it. The short interest of the stock is about one to eleven of a million dollars. Treasury Union settlements were, but the house indicates that offers to sell stocks to buy it so that the market is being fed from outside's hand. The general tone was firm, the outside of business being very about half that of yesterday, but the general undertone was somewhat higher prices. The weather of the season is the chief fear during.

New York, Aug. 11.—[Special.]—Morning prices: Gold is firm, but quotes. There is a demand for transactions, but few sellers to it. Brokers have arranged [illegible] to-day's [illegible] Treasury [illegible] Gold [illegible] Sterling [illegible] Sterling [illegible] Sterling
